Sharing of practical learnings on technical safety aspects at operations with hazardous chemicals

Key note speakers

Joe Maenen is one of the workers that survived the devastating fire on the Piper Alpha platform on July 6 1988, with 167 fatalities. His horrible experience is breath-taking.

Nils Bosma is guiding technical safety in the Netherlands at several organisations. He was part of the incident investigation team of a refinery fire in Singapore in 2010. The learnings of this incident will be shared.

Mark Hailwood is a lead process safety specialist working for LUBW (Landesanstalt für Umwelt Baden-Württemberg). The fatal Leverkusen Currenta incident will be discussed from perspective of the German authorities.
